

Barbara Shapiro, Margot Livesey, Gregory Maguire and Richard Russo are all FRIENDS OF NEW ENGLAND INDEPENDENT BOOKSELLERS

2017 was a good year for New England independent bookstores.

Many stores are reporting double-digit growth. Some of our stores are opening second locations. The narrative that bookstores are closing has proven false as independent bookstores continue to support their local schools, libraries, church and civic organizations in meaningful ways. If you have a local bookstore you know how central it is to the culture of your town and your books. But their survival is not guaranteed.

The New England Independent Booksellers Association is 44 years old. We boast 200 stores and 275 members. We are hopeful about the future of independent bookselling in New England but we need your help. In this spirit we hope you will renew your membership, or become a new FRIEND of New England Booksellers.

As a FRIEND OF NEIBA here is what YOU have helped do in 2017:

- Introduce nearly 100 authors to booksellers in New England through our All About the Books programs and the annual Fall Conference.
- Create scholarships for booksellers to attend educational workshops, and underwrite grants to stores creating shop local initiatives.
- Sustain the mission of New England Independent Booksellers Association to further the success of professional bookstores in New England and to foster a vital bookselling community.

Your continued support as a FRIEND of New England Independent Booksellers is enormously important and we hope you will renew your membership at whatever level you can.
